CONTENTS

	PAGE
Among the War Canoes	197
Another Tale of a Tub	210
Breaking of a Shell, The	183
Cabmen	286
Concerning Christmas	326
De Crinibus	498
Dining with a Mandarin	80
Fair Helen of Troy. A Discourse on the Supremely Beautiful in Womankind	39
Fair One with the Velvet Mask, The. A Passage in the Life of Tintoretto Buonatesta, Portrait-painter	175
Flowering Sunday	65
Haunted House in Westminster, The	261
Imaginary London. A delusive Directory:
I. Ticonderoga-square	435
John Collins	443
Lovels of Arden, The:
Chap. XXXII. Only a Portrait-painter	85
XXXIII. Austin's Prospects	93
XXXIV. Sisters-in-law	96
XXXV. 'And through thy Life have I not writ my Name?'	99
XXXVI. Stolen Hours	104
XXXVII. 'From Clarissa'	111
XXXVIII. 'That is what Love means'	116
XXXIX. Lying in wait	122
XL. Mr. Granger's Welcome Home	128
XLI. Caught in a Trap	229
XLII. Clarissa's Elopement	245
XLIII. Under the Shadow of St. Gudule	357
XLIV. Temptation	361
XLV. On the Wing	368
XLVI. In Time of Need	371
XLVII. 'Strangers yet'	383
XLVIII. Unforgiven	478
XLIX. Beginning again	482
L. How such Things end	490
Loves of Famous Men, The:
No. IX. James Boswell	220
Miserable Christmases	341
New Year in Scotland	350
Not all Tinsel	330
Pike-Fishing in Norfolk	471
Poems:
At Sea	432
Beside the Brook	165
Death's Choice	52
Eve of St. Valentine, The	496
Oscula dulcia	512
Red Snow, The	84

276149

	PAGE
Poems (continued):
Romance and Reality	196
Santa Klaus	323
Seven Years	260
Sic fugit	79
Sundial's Philosophy, The	182
Popular Religion in America	422
Recollections of a Fox-Hunter	55
Siege Poetry	74
Sporting Gun, The	159
Story of an Actress, The	257
Three to One; or some Passages out of the Life of Amicia Lady Sweetapple:
Chap. IX. How they all went down to High Beech	5
X. How they arrived at High Beech	14
XI. Five-o'clock Tea at High Beech	24
XII. The First Dinner at High Beech	29
XIII. After Dinner at High Beech	133
XIV. How Lady Sweetapple and Mr. Marjoram went to Bed	138
XV. How they all got up, and how Mr. Marjoram had a Morning Lecture	143
XVI. Prayers and Breakfast at High Beech	152
XVII. Every Man has his Price	293
XVIII. The Walking-Party to Miss Markham's	302
XIX. Lady Sweetapple recovers, and discovers something	310
XX. The Drive to King Edward's Oak	316
XXI. The Thunderstorm and the Gipsy	449
XXII. The Drive Home	458
XXIII. Dressing for Dinner at High Beech	461
'Till Death us do part'	503
To the Bitter End:
Chap. I. 'Down in a Flow'ry Vale'	389
II. Brierwood is degraded	394
III. 'O, do you remember the first Time I met you?'	405
IV. 'The true Titian Colour'	410
Value of Fiction, The	48
Winter Life in New York	166

ILLUSTRATIONS

Lady Sweetapple	Drawn by J. A. Pasquier	Frontispiece
Death's Choice	C. O. Murray	52
The Red Snow	Thomas Gray	84
A Peep into Bohemia	F. W. Lawson	106
Evening Reflections	J. A. Pasquier	137
Beside the Brook	C. O. Murray	165
Romance and Reality	Thomas Gray	196
In the Trap	F. W. Lawson	233
The Apparition	E. Wagner	262
Mrs. Crump's Information	J. A. Pasquier	294
Santa Klaus	C. J. Staniland	323
Clarissa in Hiding	F. W. Lawson	377
'Miss Redmayne, I think,' he said, smiling	Louis Huard	415
At Sea	C. O. Murray	432
Sinaminta	J. A. Pasquier	453